Dear Jack,

Very fortunately, we have been awarded a grant which will enable me to employ a full-time Senior Registrar on the Infertility Team. This post starts from the 1st March. Having thought about my various options, I think that it is inevitable and essential that the new appointee carries a significant workload in the infertility clinic. As you know my major problem in the clinic which is likely to remain for some time to come, is that we simply do not have space for more consultation rooms. Therefore, under these circumstances I think I have to ask you to relinquish your out-patient session with us. We are of course, all extremely grateful for your help with all the patients and look forward to a continuing relationship in the future. We hope that you will feel free to avail yourself of whatever facilities we can offer. However, I am sure you will understand that until we have an increased geographical facility it is just impossible for us to continue with our present arrangement.

I know that Raul will wish to join with me in sending you our thanks for your sterling work in the past.

Warm regards.

Yours sincerely,

Robert Winston.
