Dear Mr Philip

I wrote to you on 7th June asking you to personally supervise at least 13 complaints of serious professional misconduct against Lord Winston which have never been investigated by the GMC previously despite my previous correspondence over seven years. You did not reply and the subsequent response was from Jackie Smith Director of Investigations who said she was going to investigate the matter, without explanation from you. I wrote asking you to explain this progression but you did not reply. However, I then received a refusal letter from yet another party - Linda Summers, Assistant Director of Investigations.

It is not possible to accept the refusal letter as the GMC has admitted it has never investigated the 13 complaints of serious professional misconduct presented to it since 2000. Therefore, I consider my complaint still stands before the GMC. I will not change this stance until the GMC has conducted a proper investigation into all of the gross professional misconduct issues against Lord Professor Winston, including the 13 specified complaints.

My complaint stands.

Yours sincerely
